Nicolas Peña
Frontend developer

My name is Nicola, I'm a veterinarian with solid professional experience in the field, and since I'm always going one step further I have decided to expand my knowledge and skills in the fascinating world of IT.

Considering the undeniable impact that technologies have on daily life and motivated by global changes that compel the preparation and development of IT skills, I started a learning path focused on understanding JavaScript and its application in web development. With discipline, dedication and persistence, I have managed to understand and absorb the knowledge acquired in my personal projects.
